Music Leader Earns Sporran Dedication

From vigorously cheering at gametime to seriously revising a musical score, Mr. John R. Harris, music department head, has actively enlivened and promoted Shadle's Highlander tradition for the past ten years. He directs the orchestra, the concert, cadet, and stage bands, assists the Highlandaires, supervises the Piper Band and also serves as stage manager.

Mr. Harris' music career began at college, where he was the leader of a band. He received his master's degree from Eastern Washington State College, and he taught music at Havermale before joining Shadle's faculty.

In 1958, Mr. Harris and Mr. William Thomas, a member of the Lilac City Pipe Band, originated Shadle's Bagpipe Band. With Mr. Harris organizing and Mr. Thomas teaching bagpipe lessons, the Scottish theme of the school developed.

Through local performances and personal services, Mr. Harris helped the community become more aware of Shadle Park. He performs for the annual Shrine Circus and Ice Capade Shows, and plays first trumpet in the Spokane Symphony Orchestra, a position he has held for 20 years.

For his outstanding contributions and services to Shadle and the community, the staff proudly dedicates the 1967 Sporran to Mr. John R. Harris, an enthusiastic member of the faculty.

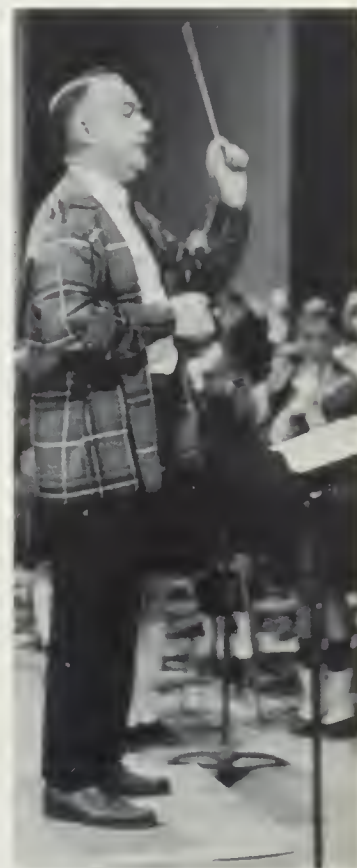

Expressing satisfaction with the band, Mr. Harris smiles over a correctly executed pattern.

Mr. Harris works intently to perfect a difficult passage in a rehearsal for the Nelson Riddle Pops Concert. Mr. Harris took full charge of the Pops Orchestra, preparing and rehearsing for Mr. Riddle's arrival.

Mr. Harris directs the stage band in the Alma Mater in the final football con, preparing for the game against North Central.

Classes Encourage Creativity, Form
Critical Minds

Mr. Ken K. Judd gives silent approval as Mrs. Gwen A. Hill describes books found in the library dealing with Sociology. The students used these books for research papers.

Right: Note taking and lectures were just a part of Mr. Ronal J. Chattin's World War I and II class. The class studied the causes of World War I, the war itself, the effect, and post war years which led to the next world war. They also studied how the wars changed the world and affected the people.

"Students can better understand the aftermath of war by experiencing the post war years of World War II," expressed Mr. Chattin. The class was designed to help the students see what might occur if there was to be another World War.

Left: Students gained a realistic view of world problems, learned background to contemporary crises and saw history "come alive" through effective use of educational films in the social studies classes.

Continued use of films, with special emphasis on the new releases which added up-to-date interpretation and facts, marked the year for the 2300 "enrollees" in the social studies classes. (Department Head Mr. Howard McNew said that at least 430 students took two classes, thus raising the total department enrollment.)

Social studies film bookings through the audio visual center totaled 442 or 48 per cent of the school's total use of films, indicating the department's reliance on this media.

History Department Modernizes

Exciting, different, and a little hard, expressed the opinion of many students from the new World I and II and Humanities course that entered the history department this year. Lectures and individual research work replaced the conventional text books. Students also received a college credit for the Humanities course.

Government, Economics, and Contemporary World Problems classes modernized their techniques by analyzing recent laws passed, the story of corporation, and foreign aid. Guest speakers helped to stimulate student interest in economic classes. Mr. George Manning, who taught Government and United States History this year stated, "Even the students who don't, or haven't liked history have taken a more active interest this year than formerly." Going on, he said, "Students today seem better informed on world and political affairs; this is largely due to television."

Art, literature, and music helped the U.S. History students understand the philosophical approach to history, as they worked on a research paper this year.

Finding new answers to old problems and working independently, the sophomores studied the basic facts of World History.

Northwest History replaced Washington State History for those who didn't receive Washington State History as freshmen. Students are required to take this course to graduate.

Jessie Sussek and Chris Brannan animatedly discuss a problem in third period Northwest History.

Deeply involved in her subject, Mrs. Dennie Moore transmits her feelings by facial expressions and calm demonstrations.

New Course Offers College Credits

Humanities, a new course offered to seniors this year, gave the students an opportunity to study on a college level. They were able to delve into fine arts, philosophy, and heritage of English and history.

Students spent two periods a day in this class combining independent study, seminars, lectures, and writing. According to Mr. Frank Yuse, the seminars helped the student ask his own questions while challenging his opinions and positions.

Mr. Frank Windishar, a new history teacher, shared class-time with Mr. Frank Yuse, who was also the instigator of the experimental, college-credit course.

Since this was a college credited course, the class was required to do outside reading during the summer. They were expected to read the books well enough to pass any test or write any paper required.

Two new faculty members were added to the English department this year. Mrs. Louise Forsyth headed a drama group. Mrs. Lynn Burnham directed a debate class from which the debate team for next year was chosen. This made a total of 16 teachers in the English department.

hand to add comments to class seminars and discussions.

The Humanities class was divided into four groups. While two of these small seminars were in session, two other groups of approximately the same size studied individually in the library. These groups were a part of the plan for college level study and comments made by the students showed their effectiveness. One girl remarked on how each day was scheduled to prepare her for the days to follow and how this helped to increase her understanding of every topic.

With a sigh of bewilderment, Ron Stoner drifts off into his own world of English literature.

Projectors, New Books Aid Teachers

Explaining the often confusing world of analytical geometry, Mr. Cecil Robinette enlists the aid of a blackboard graph.

Inhaling chalk dust ceased to be a problem as Shadle math teachers began using overhead projectors to demonstrate methods of solving equations and problems. The projectors also benefitted the students by making explanations easier to follow.

New hardbound books started to replace temporary SMSG (school mathematics study groups) books in advanced math classes. The department hopes to have new books for all classes within a few years.

Teachers strove to emphasize the importance of mathematics to college bound students for future careers.

Carefully examining theorems, Lynn Endress solves a problem in a classroom assignment.

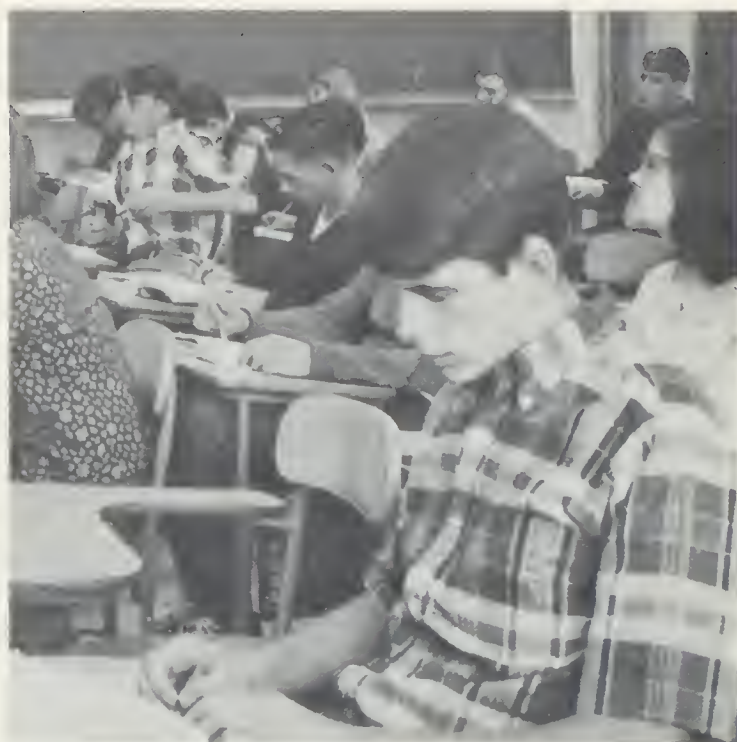

Students display varied expressions as they ponder the complexities of intermediate mathematics.

Diana Bullivant expresses quiet reflection as she listens to explanations of conic sections.

Squinting into a microscope, Kathy Fasbender observes the movement of protoplasm in a plant cell.

Working with test tubes characterizes chemistry class as shown by Mary Slagg and Karen Evans.

Making aspirin is the chemistry project tackled by Joe Barrett.

Integrated Science Class Introduces Team-Teaching

Experimental team-teaching, introduced this year in the Integrated Science classes, enabled students to examine science from three viewpoints. Each teacher, working with the class for a six-week period, interpreted the course from their special discipline. In this manner students gained a better understanding of general scientific principles.

Paleobiology, a spring semester elective course, dealt with geology and prehistoric life of the Pacific Northwest. Field trips and lab work added variety to this course, the only one of its kind in Spokane.

Traditional lab courses in Biology, Chemistry and Physics completed the curriculum for college-bound students.

Language Classes Aided By New Lab Facilities

Extending language lab facilities and adding classroom workbooks and texts contributed to foreign language classes this year.

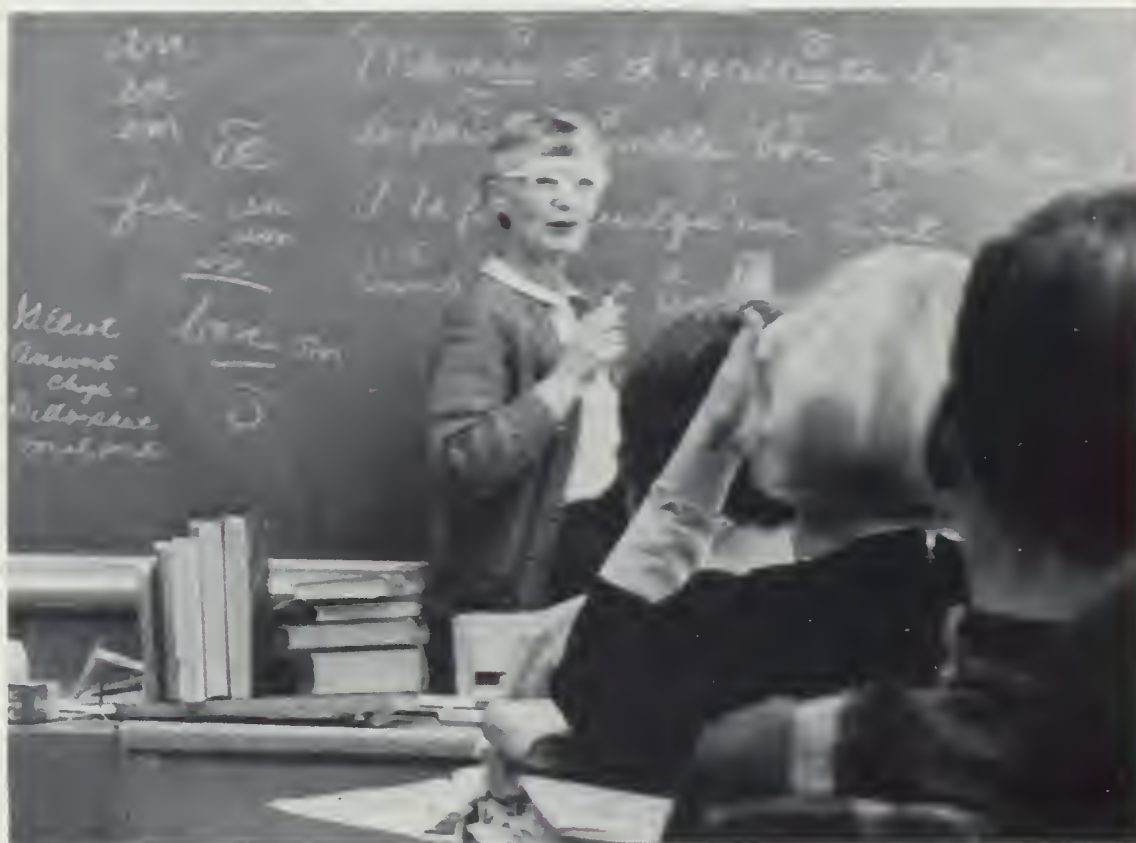

Latin students used the language lab for the first time this year. Instructors taught basic drills over the microphone since no Latin tapes were available.

Workbooks for classroom study and a new German text, The German Heritage, aided teachers and students by introducing a more modern interpretation of the language.

Scenic photos helped give experience in speaking and forming sentences. After seeing a photo, the class would discuss it and answer queries.

Business Education Classes Stress New Business Skills

Office Practice and Automation classes, offered for the first time, stressed development of business skills for full-time employment and personal use. Bookkeeping, typing, stenography and office machines prepared 1066 Business Education students for future careers.

Office Practice emphasized working in a business atmosphere, while Automation familiarized the student with business machines.

Typing and shorthand prepared students for their futures as secretaries, businessmen, or housewives. Balancing bookkeeping assignments provided practical experience for budgeters. Business majors learned to operate electric typewriters, key-driven calculators, full-keyboard machines and duplicating and transcribing machines.

All Business courses strove to acquaint the students with the ever-changing techniques of the business world.

Transcribing letters into English is one of the many tasks for Denise Walker in Shorthand.

Experiment, Guest Musician Climax Musical Activities

Playing "guinea pig" for a national experiment in music theory and history plus culminating weeks of rehearsal and hard work under the baton of Nelson Riddle in the tenth annual Pops Concert climaxed the music department's year.

Choir members became the experimental group studying a prescribed music course. The band was the "control" group. They were tested with the choir at the beginning and end of the year. Test results showed how much choir members had learned because of the course.

Pops Concert featured Hollywood musician Nelson Riddle. Weeks of intensive rehearsal produced a concert recorded by KTWD-FM and broadcast the following Sunday.

Courses Train College-Bound Artists

Basic art classes guide the way to Senior Studio, Shadle's "special permission" art class.

In Senior Studio the student makes a portfolio of his work and sends it to the college of his choice for analysis and a possible scholarship. Almost every year a Shadle student has received an art college scholarship. Senior Studio is headed by Mrs. Faith Snider, who also teaches creative drawing and painting.

Students in Mr. George Alex's sculpture class work with clay and fashion jewelry. To complete Shadle's art curriculum, pen and brush techniques are taught by Mrs. Geraldine Couture in her lettering class.

Preparing a charcoal canvas, James Link demonstrates one of the projects for Senior Studio.

Courses Exchange

Boys invaded Home Economics classes as girls picked up the tools in electronics labs this year, beginning an experimental program in which students enrolled in traditionally unmixed classes.

The boys, besides learning to cook, operate a range and wash dishes, learned to plan a meal with nutritional value. The 27 "would-be chefs," distributed in three classes, occasionally requested aid from the girls. Ron Huston, one of the boys in Mrs. Harriet Kresel's class, said, "It's really a lot of fun and a good experience." Mrs. Kresel explained many of the boys want to be chefs, while a few just want to be able to cook for themselves.

In other Home Economic areas, projects for the girls in Tailoring class included making jackets, suits, and coats, either of winter or spring materials. "The girls make up a pattern of quilt material before beginning a suit of expensive wool," said Mrs. Margaret Kroske, instructor.

Advanced Clothing and Clothing 1 and 2 classes assembled jumpers and jackets in current fashion fabrics. In the spring the girls made short and long formals.

Completing the exchange, girls assembled tape recorders, receivers, amplifiers and magnetically operated devices to meet Electronics class challenges.

Using an Ohmmeter, Darlene Wikel measures resistance of a light bulb as part of the basic training in the electronics lab.

Carol DeGuire diligently solders a switch and wire for a light circuit as a class assignment to further knowledge of electron flow.

Students

Careers such as radio operators, X-Ray technicians, and interior designing enlist girls in industrial arts to study technical programs.

Girls expressing desires toward interior decorating enrolled in mechanical and architectural drawing to prepare for this career.

Boys in wood shop measured, sawed, and sanded pine, cedar, walnut, and mahogany woods to construct stereos, Hi-Fi's, end tables, shelves and bookcases.

Demonstrating techniques of pan frying, Kathy Heisig and Barbara Chapman slice onions as Jan Figy observes with great interest.

"It's squishy!" delightfully expresses Ron Huston as he experiments with pie dough. Charlotte Tomson and Connie Showalter assist Ron with the technical problems of cooking.

"Skinning the cat," Linda Volland does part of a gymnastics routine on the uneven parallel bars in preparation for a test. Spotters Gail Vaughn and Gayle Ellingboe stand ready to help. The gymnastics program includes learning to perform on the apparatus and to be an alert spotter.

Pointing to the schedule for Boys' PE classes, Mr. John Zimmerman, student teacher, interprets the new program for Tim Chapman, who listens intently. Teachers experimented with introducing boys to ice skating, bowling, golfing, and other sports that could be useful throughout a lifetime.

Pausing before diving into the proverbial icy waters of Shadle's swimming pool, Dave Utley participates in a free swimming period. Free swimming helped boys become used to water activities and prepare themselves for the endurance tests of swimming as many lengths of the pool as possible during the week.

Inovations Provide Unique Program

Mash fins and snorkles contributed to Shadle's physical fitness program this year. Discussion groups and training for lifetime sports emphasized mental alertness.

Basic water skills and life saving techniques helped develop a feeling of confidence, while new equipment aided basic skin-diving lessons. Swimmers played hilldill and waterball for recreation.

Scuba diving and skiing experts familiarized boys with the basic skills of these sports. Ice skating, bowling and golf classes introduced other lifetime sports.

Weekly discussions gave girls a chance to debate points of etiquette, fashion and dating. Mrs. Charlotte Jones, head of Girls' PE, felt these sessions were informative and helpful for self-expression.

Provided with all the apparatus recommended for girls, gymnastics teachers stressed balance and agility while achieving confidence in working at different heights. Boys worked to develop strength in their arms and shoulders.

Smiling, girls respond during one of many discussion periods conducted by the Girls' PE Department this year. Topics were selected randomly from anonymous suggestions and discussed freely. Girls explored new subjects each session giving themselves a chance for self-expression in many areas.

Increased cooperation between students and faculty aided the success of fall ASB projects. The Highlander Committee, consisting of nine teachers and nine students, strove to better student-faculty relations. The committee discussed tests, student and faculty behavior and congestion in the halls.

To improve school spirit, the ASB made SP spheres from "76" balls and sold them to students. Building Improvement committee planted tulips in the Senior Court, one of 22 projects completed by the committee.

"Police Lassies," a new addition to Highlander Week, and Clansmen were employed by the ASB to prevent infractions of rules during the traditional week of courtesy. New rules included the outlawing of books other than textbooks and stuffed animals from the halls.

A con depicting the sabotage of the spirit of Highlander Week initiated the "mutual respect days." On Hi-Teacher Day, the Home Ec students served coffee, tea and cookies to the faculty during their free periods. Hi-Henderson Day was color day.

"Kilts-a-Fling," the annual Highland Fling dance, brought the week to a climax with the crowning of Kristie Schultz and Steve Ogilvie as the Friendliest Girl and Boy.

Lu Develops "Sense"

"I've learned to see things with humor since I've been here," said Lutgart Matthys, Shadle's American Field Service exchange student from Belgium. At first she found the United States and its customs unusual but she rapidly learned to adapt to them. "I thought I'd see cowboys and Indians," Lu disappointedly explained. Having heard so much about the West she naturally assumed she would find a "frontier."

Lu felt that the two countries' school systems were the major differences. Because of a national custom no high schools are co-educational in Belgium. Students study sixteen subjects during the year. Because of the strict schedule, many Belgians do not graduate and those that do are automatically accepted into college.

Although Lu misses her parents and nine brothers and sisters, she plans to come back to the U.S. However, her contract with the A.F.S. requires that she spend at least two years in Europe before she returns to this country.

A.F.S. is a two-way street for international understanding, and Shadle students attempted to make the street useful. Cheryl Bently, junior, and Greg Sanford, senior, applied for European study in the fall and were named area finalists in mid-December. Notified in the spring if they were national finalists, they would be assigned a foreign "home" during the summer.

Presents Collected For ASB Projects

"Christmas this year for the ASB was the most rewarding one yet," stated Greg Toy, Christmas Project chairman. The projects included a party for the children at the Cerebral Palsy School, the annual collection for Galland Hall and the Viet Nam project.

Buying presents, collecting money in homerooms and filling Christmas stockings for the Cerebral Palsy School provided a fulltime job for chairmen Linda Neel and Bill Mustard. Reg Briggs played Santa Claus at the party given for the children.

Galland Hall, a home for girls, received a sewing machine, three irons, and a portable AM-FM radio. Collections in homerooms provided the money for these gifts.

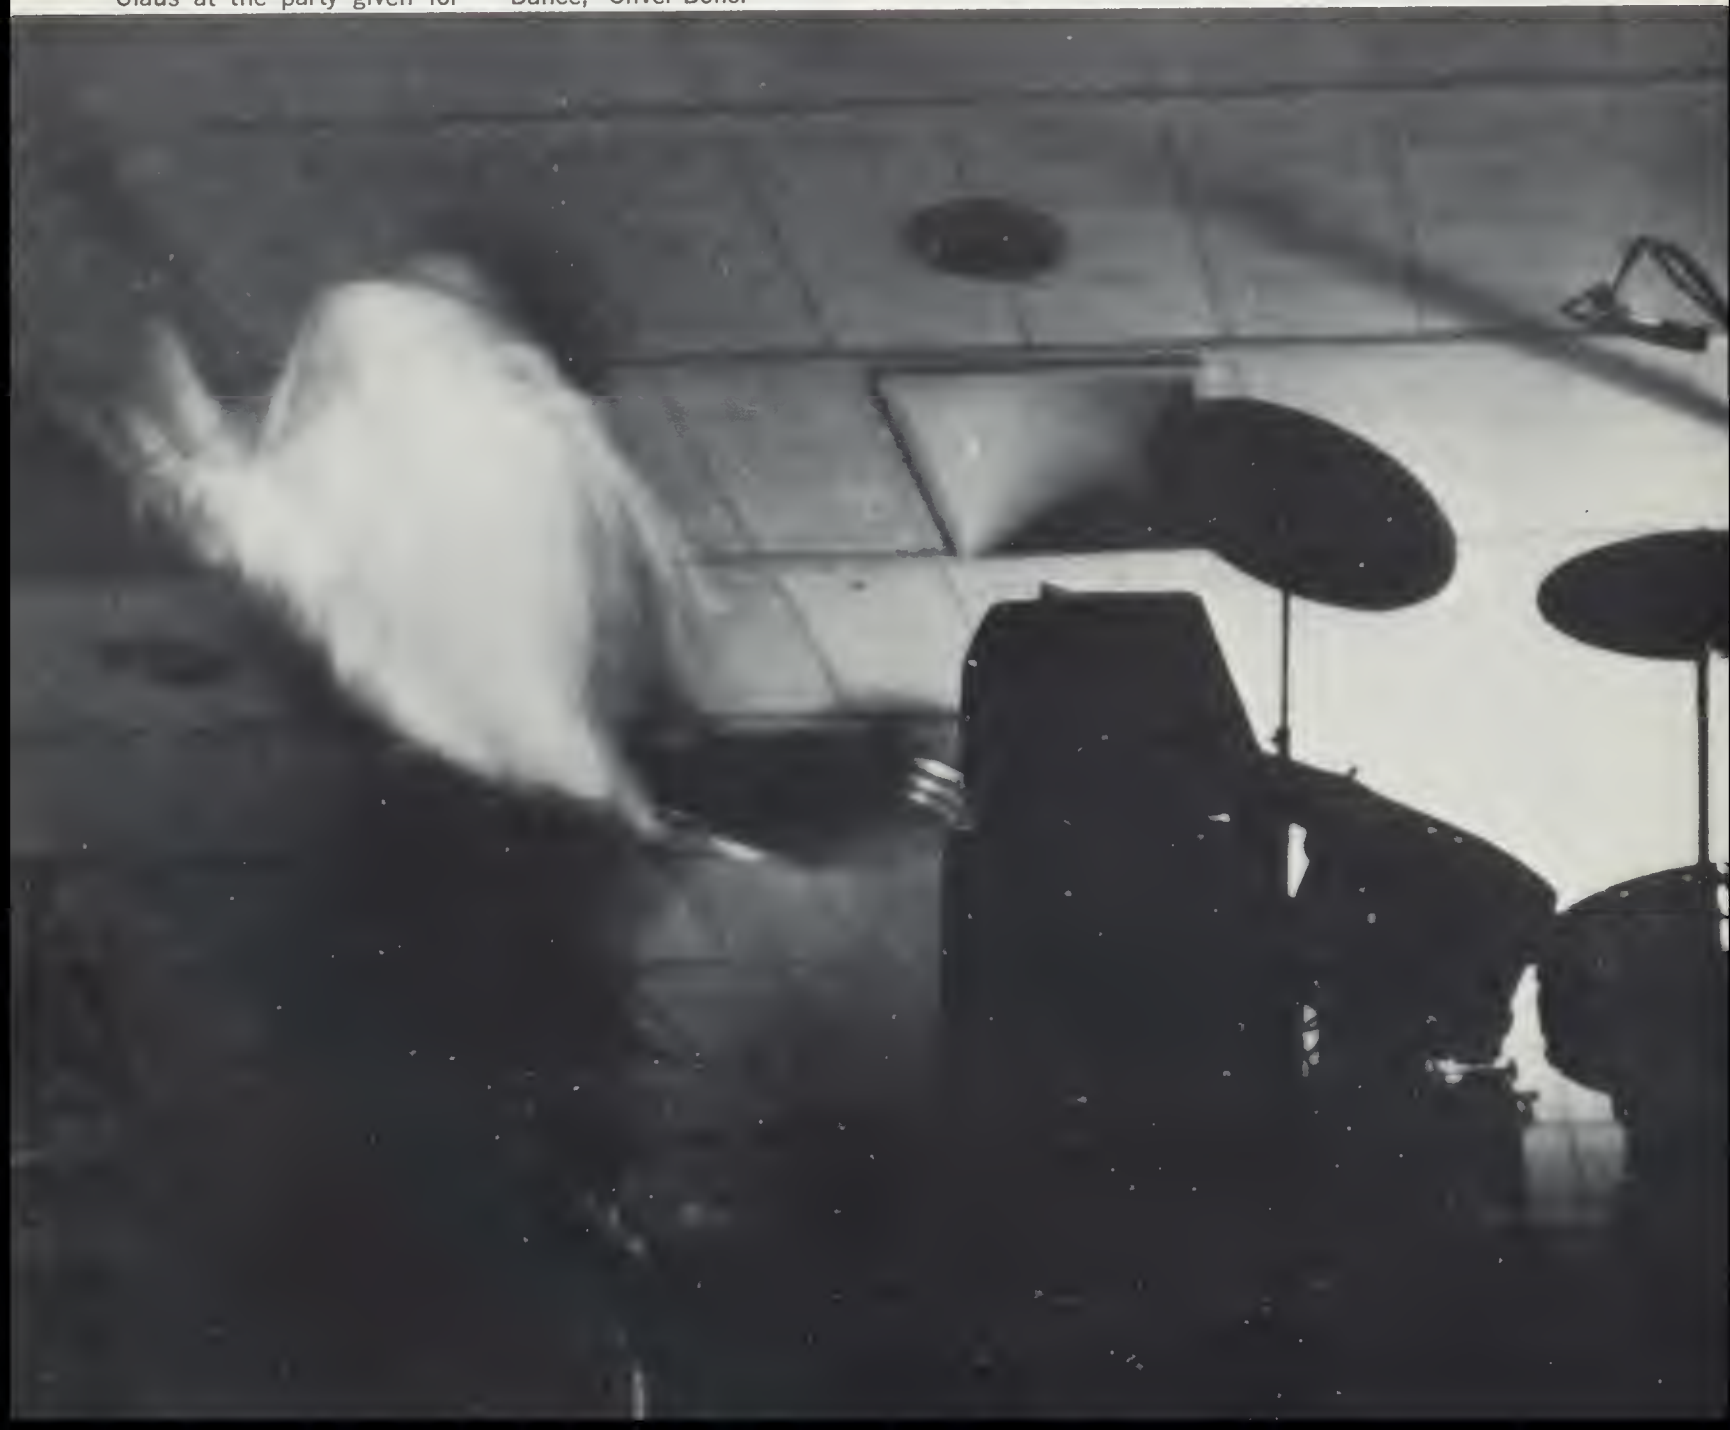

Twenty plastic jugs filled with cookies, pens, flashlights and transistor batteries completed the 1966 Viet Nam Christmas Project.

Distinctive decorations keyed this year's Christmas Dance, "Silver Bells."

Candy and the Casuals provided the necessary "vibrations" for the annual ASB Christmas Dance.

Assembling decorations for the Christmas Dance are Debbie Hill, picture chairman; Frank Greco, music; Ginny Hubbard, decorations; and Shirley Fairfax, chaperones.

Standing in quiet solitude, the Senior Class' Christmas tree symbolized the serenity of the coming Christmas holidays.

International understanding became the theme of the spring semester ASB special project. A convocation dedicating flags accumulated throughout the past ten years gained city-wide TV, radio and newspaper coverage. Mr. Calvin Zinkel, former Shadle Park teacher, came from the University of Colorado and spoke in the March 16 con. Twelve foreign and two American flags were displayed in the auditorium and will remain there as other flags are added. "We hope the collection will continue to grow, becoming unique at Shadle," said Don Jones, president.

Annual ASB Sweetheart Dance Emphasizes "Youthful Look"

"Because We're Young," the annual Sweetheart Dance, emphasized a youthful look at Valentine's Day, according to Linda Neel, general chairman.

Homerooms, clubs, Hi-Lassies and Clansmen each nominated a Sweetheart candidate. Six finalists were then chosen by the student body and the winner was crowned during the dance intermission.

As a new coronation ceremony, one rose was given to each of the finalists by Don Jones, and the Sweetheart received one dozen pink and lavender roses. The Barons highlighted the semi-formal, no corsage event.

The pulsating sounds of the Barons added to the atmosphere of the Valentine's Sweetheart Dance.

Friendliness and encouragement greeted apprehensive new girls as they were introduced to the Girls' League through the Big-Little Sister program. Each big sister encouraged her "little sister" to join clubs and committees and to participate in school-sponsored activities.

Early in October an all-girl assembly enabled Girls' State representatives Julie Harding, Sharon Rodkey and Chris VanWinkle to share the edu-

Decorated cardboard boxes, collected toys and the spirit of giving prevailed during the Toys for Tots campaign, making this year's drive the most successful, according to Chris Van Winkle, GL president.

"Personality Fashions," modeled by Shadle girls in November, introduced the latest fall-winter styles by Simplicity.

Attending the Dad-Daughter Dessert enabled girls to entertain their fathers for an evening.

Creating a Dogpatch atmosphere, Debbie Kruse, Tammy Fry and Decorations Chairman Sandy McCulloch construct a scene for the "Sadie."

Lynda Gilbreth and Ed Cuzzetto, dressed as bottles of Kickapoo Joy Juice, were candidates for Best Costumed Couple at the Sadie.

"Galley" Acquaints Officers With Council

"The Galley," an early morning breakfast, introduced the semester for the newly elected spring officers and council. The breakfast served as a get-together for the League advisors, council members, and officers. The Senior Cove, decorated with red, white and blue streamers, provided the atmosphere of a ship's galley. The girls enjoyed a light breakfast of tomato juice, cocoa and cinnamon rolls.

Girls, modeling fashions by Simplicity Patterns, presented a Spring-Summer style show in a March convocation.

GL Sponsors Style Show, "Springy" Dance

"Fashion in Art," a Simplicity style show presented by the Girls' League, displayed a rainbow of spring colors in fashion style and ushered in spring League activities.

"Serving with Pride and Dignity," a con presented in late March by four members of the Women's Army Corps exhibiting unit, combined history and pageantry in the modeling of 19 costumes from periods of American history.

Later, the League presented the annual Cotton Day dance with the theme "Spring Is Bustin' Out All Over." Cartoon characters created a "springy" atmosphere. Climaxing the dance was the coronation of John Nelson and Lu Matthys as Cotton Day King and Queen.

Cheerleaders Initiate Tradition With "Spirit Stick" Presentation

Awarding of the Spirit Stick became a new tradition as the cheerleaders presented it each week to a group or organization that displayed the most enthusiasm at an athletic event.

To make organized cheering more successful, cheerleaders attended meetings of Hi-Lassies, Pep Club and Great Scots and taught the cheers and songs.

Miss Sharon Hale, advisor, took part in discussion on planning pep cons, keeping correspondence with other schools and sportsmanship drives.

Cheerleaders display their "Tunes of Glory" routine during the first winter sports con honoring the basketball and wrestling teams.

"SHADLE" yell the cheerleaders completing the popular "Spell out" with perfect technique.

"We're gonna' beat Gonzaga—NO SWEAT!" was the theme of the skit performed by the cheerleaders at a football pep con held in the outdoor theater. The weather during football season permitted two outdoor pep cons.

Cheerleaders are bottom in top: Miriam Toy, Kristie Schulte, Sue Prior, Barbara Brusseau, Patti Weed, Sue Thompson and Ann Babcock.

Planning pep cons for each sports activity throughout the year was one of the cheerleaders' duties, along with performing in them.

"I didn't know I could yell so loud," commented Hi-Lassies after a close victory. To promote school spirit and enthusiasm, the Hi-Lassies attended league football and basketball games and wrestling matches. The girls chartered a bus this year and attended the State Wrestling match in Ellensburg. "We were all so tired, practically everyone slept on the way home," exclaimed Hi-Lassie Nanette Route.

Concluding the fall semester, Hi-Lassies presented a semester dance centered around the theme "Mind Excursion." The traditional Hi-Lassie play this year was based on the fairy tale "Cinderella."

A potluck dinner for all new members highlighted the initiation program. Concluding the year's activities, the Hi-Lassies marched in the Lilac Parade.

Breakfast

Presenting the annual surprise breakfast for the football players ended the fall sports season for Pep Club. At 8:00 on a Saturday morning the breakfast honored coaches and 50 players roused earlier by mothers "in cohorts" with the club.

Cheerleaders awarded Pep Club the spirit stick during football season for its support and enthusiasm at the games and convocations. Programs were sold by the club during the football and basketball seasons.

Pep Club won the first bulletin board contest in November for its idea "Give Thanks with Spirit." As a Christmas project, the club donated $65 to help those left homeless from the Italian flood.

Ending the year, Pep Club gave a date dance in March and supported spring sports.

Digging into a pancake and ham breakfast, the football players prove to be good sports about the early morning affair.

Hootenany, "Smoker" Headline Activities As School Spirit Groups Set New Pace

Beginning to mold traditions in their second year, the Great Scots introduced school and sport activities.

Wearing the official Henderson plaid vest with a yellow shirt, they cheered at all athletic functions, distributed monthly calendars as a school service, and performed in a pep con skit.

Local and college bands supplied the talent for a Hootenanny sponsored by the Great Scots.

Directing crowds and watching the doors at home games, holding a Hi-Lassie-Clansman picnic and sponsoring a smoker wrestling match headed the program for the Clansmen. During the smoker, the audience challenged Clansmen for matches.

Music Theory, Performances Highlight Vocalists' Year

Planning the activities for the choir this year was the responsibility of the choir officers: Glenn Batty, vice president; Mr. Melvin Kornmeyer, director; Sharon Rodkey, secretary-treasurer; and Dave Erickson, president.

Music theory tests and the annual concerts combined to make an active year for the vocal groups, under the direction of Mr. Melvin Kornmeyer.

Music theory classes given to the choir helped in a government-supported experiment to test the value of the classes in a performance group. The choir, or experimental group, used text books and records to further their musical understanding and increase the students' sightreading ability. The same tests at the end of the year showed the accomplishments of the group.

Treble Tempos, Highlandaires, Choir, and Girls' Chorus presented their annual Pops concert featuring guest artist Nelson Riddle, popular composer and orchestra leader.

Band Depicts Year of Activity

Marching through 1967, the Shadle Park Concert Band appeared in civic functions from the September 15 football game to the annual Lilac Festival Parade.

Mr. John Harris, director of the 97-piece marching unit, planned exhibitions for half-time entertainment at five fall football games. The major-ettes prepared routines that accompanied the band on the field and in parades.

The tenth annual Pops Concert, November 19, featured the band in its first formal evening performance. Nelson Riddle, noted composer, conducted the Shadle band and orchestra in some of his most famous material.

This spring, band members represented Shadle in the All-Northwest Music Contest. They competed among students from six states, including Washington and Oregon.

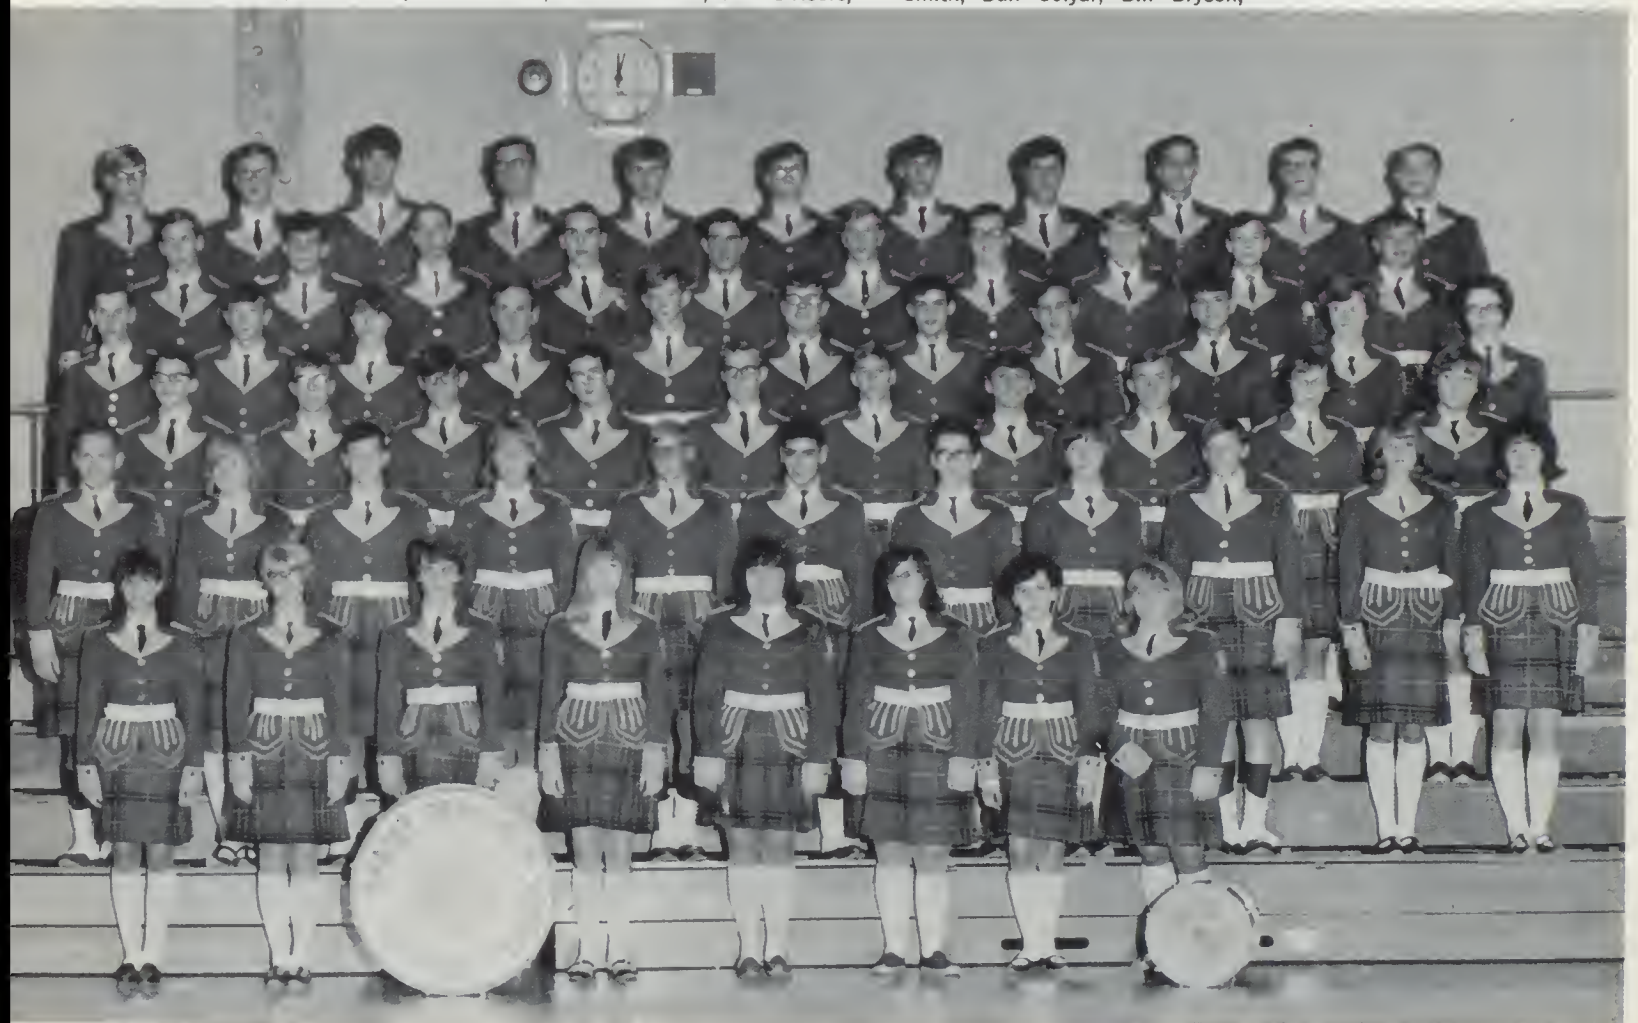

A striking performance requires hours of rehearsal and practice by all band members.

Pipers, Dancers Add to Highland Theme, Represent Shadle in Community Events

"Tunes of Glory," sounded by the Bagpipe Band, welcomed Nelson Riddle as he stepped from his plane at the Spokane International Airport. The Bagpipe Band added its traditional Scottish music to many school functions and also performed for the public in parades and half-time exhibitions with the marching band.

Mr. William Thomas conducted classes for the bagpipers each week. Mr. Thomas and his wife instruct the Highland dancers who often aided Shadle's Scottish theme by performing the Highland Fling with the pipers.

Music Year Features "Batman Pro" Concert

"Batman's" theme writer, Nelson Riddle, conducted the tenth annual Pops Concert in November. Concluding the year, all bands and choral groups performed for the Musical Smorgasbord.

Appearing for the first time with a high school band, Nelson Riddle selected some of his most famous arrangements for the performance. They included the "Kennedy March," "Love Song" from Mutiny on the Bounty, and "Le Voyage en Ballon."

Other work during the department's year included music from the "Alfred Hitchcock Show" and "Game of the Week." Orchestra, stage and cadet bands worked on these scores in rehearsals and featured some of them in the annual Christmas and Spring concerts. Other popular arrangements were by Spokane arranger, Jim Baker. Some were especially done for the Shadle music department.

Stage band, composed of highly advanced students, performed for school and outside functions.

Cadet band prepared students for the orchestra or concert band vacancies.

During the year, students enrolled in cadet band learn the basics of instrumental ensemble music and performance. As individual members progress in mastery of these necessary skills, they advance to other instrumental groups to display their musical ability. "The cadet band is a class designed to give all musically interested students an opportunity for performance while they await an opening in the regular instrumental ensemble. They insure balance in the other groups," stated Mr. John Harris, department head.

Newspaper Gains National Leader Title

Discussing galley proofs at an editorial conference, Sue Barraclough, editor; Mr. Clark, advisor; Terry

Bennett, assistant editor; Marci Lucas, reporter; and Frank Greco, feature editor, determine the final placement of news in the paper.

Awarded a Medalist rating by the Columbia Scholastic Press association, The Highlander Hi-Lites gained national recognition as a leading school newspaper. The award was given to schools placing in the top ten per cent of their class size.

A new format this year introduced modern type face and a four-column layout on the feature page. Frank Greco created the new format after attending the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University last summer.

Sue Barraclough won the news feature writing contest sponsored by the Spokane Press Club and Dave Mathiason was first alternate for a scholarship offered by the same group. Frank Greco and Ron Hardin were elected president and treasurer of the Spokane Junior Press Club, a program for high school journalists.

Distribution morning finds Hi-Lites staff members Bill Elston, sports editor; Randy Withrow, business manager; Greg Sanford, advertising editor; Ron Hardin, reporter; and

Sue Barraclough, upper right, retained editorship for both semesters—the second time in Shadle history for a student to serve a full year. Ron Hardin was assistant editor first semester and Terry Bennett assumed that position for the second semester.

Sporran Staff Increases Book Size,

Zella Sarchet, Editor

Ginny Hubbard, Assistant Editor

Stimulated by first place ratings from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the National Scholastic Press Association, the Sporran staff adopted a new four-column format and enlarged the page size to provide a more unified and interesting yearbook.

Attending a summer clinic at the University of Washington, the editor and assistant editor learned the fundamentals of planning a yearbook theme and layout using the new format. In the fall, Whitworth College held a one-day clinic that nine staff members attended, which furthered their understanding of yearbook ideas.

Accompanying students on the fall trips was advisor-teacher Mr. Ted Clark. He encouraged the staff to maintain a professional and academic approach to the production of a yearbook. In the classroom, he stressed the use of creativity and exactness of layouts.

Financing the yearbook was completed in September by students who sold orders for the book and by staff members who solicited advertising. A mass balance format was used for the first time in the ad section of the book. One-third of staff members sold ads and raised approximately $1700 to balance the book's budget.

"Do you want to buy a Sporran?" became a common phrase as 30 school salesmen succeeded in selling 1760 yearbooks to students and faculty. The top 15 salesmen were honored at a dinner given by the Pischel publishers and the top 10 received free yearbooks.

Adopts New Layout

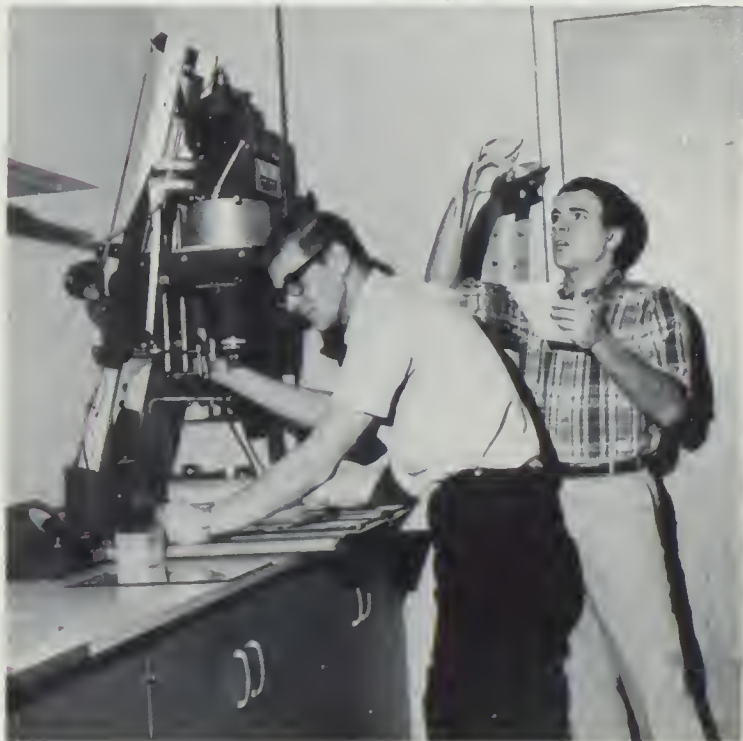

Advisor, Mr. Ted Clark, views a negative with Zella Sarchet and discusses its quality for use in the yearbook. He encouraged the staff to use candid photography and originality in their layouts.

Planning for the new advertising section, Ad Editor, Debbie Simonson, rechecks copy for the layouts.

Working in the darkroom, staff photographers Dan Hoogstad and Gordie Preecs are responsible for many of the pictures in the annual.

Language Clubs Share Interest; Vary Year's Activities, Goals

A sister school in France, speakers and foreign language films provided common interests for the foreign language clubs this year.

year. The sister schools exchanged ideas and various objects common to student life, such as yearbooks and booster buttons.

Versatile

Sponsoring co-ed nights, presenting plays and providing talent for various functions kept three of Shadle's "special interest" groups active.

Caileag Clan, girls' sports organization, provided entertainment and refreshments for Shadle students at several co-ed sport nights.

Thespian members volunteered as ushers for Civic Theater productions during the year and, as part of the advanced drama class, they produced "The Dancing Princess," a play presented to many northwest Spokane grade schools as part of the district's Theater 81 project.

Versatility typified the Talent Club as members performed for school and community affairs and hosted the January All-City Talent Con.

Stage Crew Supervises Cons, Builds Sets, Changes Lights

"Testing, 1 . . . 2 . . . 3 . . ." often echoes through the barren auditorium as the stage crew prepares for an upcoming convocation, play or rehearsal. Working the largest stage in Spokane, the stage crew operates lights and props for performances given by various schools, churches and organizations.

Changing stage lights, checking the spotlights and lecos, moving props, the podium and chairs are all required for a pep con. Checking with Mr. John Harris, the crew makes last minute preparations and changes. During the pep con, jobs include operating stage lights and controlling microphone volumes. After the con, the stage crew spends half an hour putting away chairs, microphones and props used in the cons.

Crew members must take one semester of electronics, then spend many hours during and after school to operate the stage equipment.

Meeting with Stage Advisor Mr. John Harris, Stage Manager Ken Sammons checks the schedule and makes preparations for adjusting the switches on the Davis Dimmer Board. Making sure that they are labeled correctly, Ken glances through the color patterns needed for the Senior Con. The Davis Dimmer Board is the central operating unit on the stage. The board controls the stage lights and the two lecos, changing of color patterns and turning lights off or on according to the schedule.

Making final preparations for an upcoming con, stage crew members Jim Shelden, Bruce Bjork and Gary Bunney put up and adjust stage lights and props. The constant changing of light bulbs and the arranging of lights is needed to keep the eighty-nine stage lights in good working order.

Operating the Davis Dimmer Board, Gary Bunney, Jim Shelden and Dave Miller control the stage lights' patterns and color schemes. Keeping in contact with the stage crew members running the spotlights, they inform them when to direct the spotlight and what color pattern to follow.

Santa Letters, World Chaos, Art Displays Provide Challenging Projects For Clubs

Library Club members Kathie Dike, Karen Peuck, Nancy Lauber, Pam

Miller and Charlene Stiller prepare materials for an art display.

Challenging problems confronted members of Quill and Scroll, Library Club and Demarians as they answered letters, learned to operate new machines, and debated political questions.

Members of Quill and Scroll, national journalism honorary, are selected for superior writing skill and outstanding service from journalism classes, according to Ted Clark, the group's advisor.

Christmas time found them answering letters to Santa Claus from children throughout Spokane. They also hosted the all-city installation of new members and sponsored a picnic at Highbridge Park in early spring for Hi-Lites, Sporrán and photography staff members.

To assist the librarians, members of the Library Club learned to operate audio-visual machines and compile picture files. They sponsored the art displays in the library and the sale of school stationery and paperback books.

Debating the Red China question, discussing the off-year elections and Viet Nam policy challenged the Demarians, a political discussion group.

"Should Red China be admitted to the UN?" posed a challenging debate for the Demarians.

Hosting the city-wide Quill and Scroll installation, Shadle's newly chartered members help light the nine candles of journalistic truth during the ceremony.

During December, Shadle's address temporarily became the "North Pole" as Quill and Scroll members answered hundreds of Santa letters sent in by city children. Playing Santa's helpers are Zella Sarchet, Bill Elston, Suzy Cox, Patty Fox, Bill Drew, Dave Mathiason, Sue Barraclough, Louise Drollinger, Terry Bennett, Ron Hardin, Frank Greco and Ginny Hubbard. Not pictured: Wendy Wright.

"How to shoot pool in ten easy lessons," absorbed Quill and Scroll members' attention after their picnic.

Tours through the Hollister-Stier Laboratory, Washington State University and the Crime Laboratory in the County Sheriff's office highlighted the activities of the Science Club.

Electronics Club toured KXLY studios and control rooms and on a later tour, members watched TV tubes being re-built.

Rifle Club members competed for team and individual awards at Cheney and Wenatchee while the Chess Club challenged Spokane schools in a tournament.

Providing special services and assisting in school projects characterized the year for FNA, FTA and FMS.

Future Nurses of America engaged two speakers this year. Mrs. Gleeve, Shadle's nurse, outlined the duties of a school nurse, and Mrs. Olson of Deaconess Hospital described the Candy Striper Program at Deaconess. Club members brought Christmas cheer to a young Lakeland Village patient. They gave her a big stuffed poodle and a purse for Christmas, and treated her to a movie during the holiday season.

Future Teachers of America visited two nursing homes and entertained the elderly women of Madison North during Thanksgiving, and Madison South at Christmas. During free periods of the day, girls visited Field Grade School to observe and assist the teachers and students. They prepared and instructed lessons for the classes, and began acquainting themselves with the teaching profession.

Future Medical Club students took a field trip to Eastern Washington State Hospital in the fall where they observed the doctors and nurses treating patients. During the Christmas season, FMA assisted the ASB in filling jugs with cookies and books for the American soldiers in Viet Nam.

Honor Clubs Promote Cultural Aspects;

Serving both the city and the school, Key Club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, and Dileas Chailin helped promote the fine arts and educational aspects of the school.

The Fine Arts Festival, held each year by Dileas Chailin, included separate days honoring art, drama, fashion, music and dance. Members held a chili dinner with the girls' honor club at North Central, and entertained their fathers at a Father-Daughter Potluck.

Key Club helped in the construction of Pine River Park. Around school, the boys sold licorice, helped the Highlandaires buy new outfits and raised the flag in the park.

Clubs Build Funds For Scholarship Aid

Mr. George Alex, advisor for Eldah Tra, assists in planning a coming field trip with Sherri Galer, first semester president.

Small cash scholarships for an outstanding club member were unique to Eldah Tra and Home Ec Club this year. Four examples of a student's art work were judged during the Fine Arts Week in March for the art award and Home Ec Club presented its award in May.

Both scholarships were designed to assist with the students' college expenses.

Eldah Tra members made and sold Christmas corsages in December to assist the scholarship fund.

Home Ec Club members faced a point system for the first time this year to earn their club pin. The points were based on members' club participation. Each girl sewed a matching club dress as one of the initial point projects.

Sales of food, the "What-zit" and Booster Tags filled the Home Ec treasury.

Two excursions characterized the activity of Art Club members during the year. Visiting first the WSU extension in downtown Spokane, the students studied an exhibit of work by the University faculty. Later in the year the club also attended a hand craft exhibit at the Cheney Cowles Museum.

Membership is characterized by the identifying pin which members purchase when they join. All students interested in art are welcome, even if they are not enrolled in a class at time of membership.

The pin was designed by a Shadle student when the club was first organized, and now is the symbol of the club. The pin bears the club name which is "Shadle Art" spelled backwards without the "s".

Becoming a "uniform" group this year, Home Ec Club members began by making identical dresses. Fall projects found the girls busy creating a "What-zit"—an original chenille design totally unidentifiable and thus earning the title "what is it?"—and booster tags. Both items were sold to student body to boost treasury balances.

Club members proudly point out that the "What-zit" was the first item to be put on the Spirit Stick when it was awarded to Mr. Taylor at the first fall convocation.

DE, Commercial Club Learn Management,

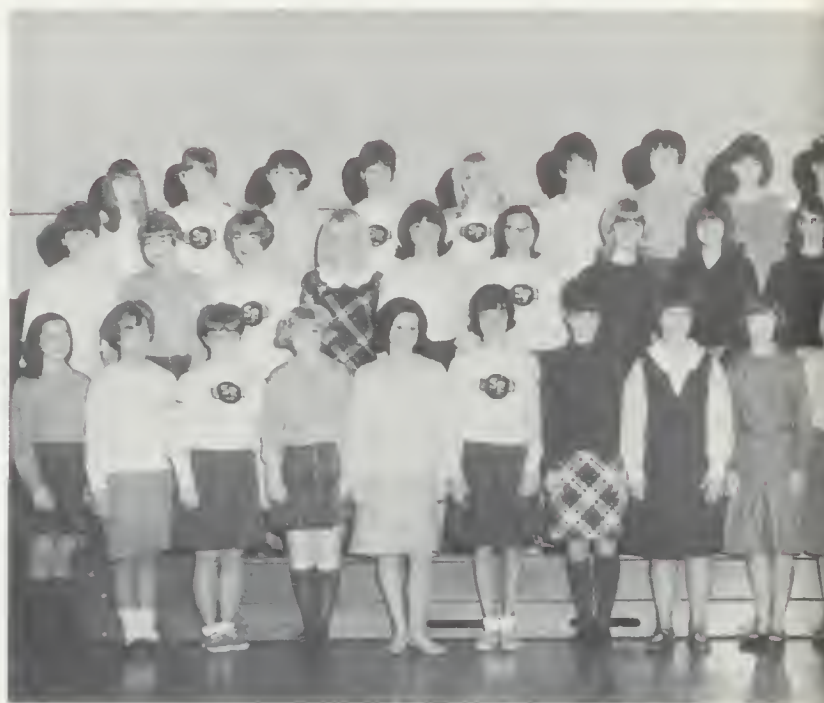

A Governor's Conference in Olympia highlighted Distributive Education this year as representatives from Washington ran for state Distributive Education Clubs of America offices. Lynn Oien, nominated for state president, accompanied DE director Mr. James Morlan as Shadle's representative. Besides the Governor's Conference in October, 12 representatives visited Yakima in the spring and entered state leadership contests, competing in public speaking, selling, display and merchandising competition.

Distributive Education class introduced a business world to students through merchandising, marketing, and management. The three phases of DE are the class, DECA, and the work program. The class met third and fourth periods every day and discussed business and economics. DECA members sold senior keys, school rings, popcorn and calendars. The 26 class members found jobs through the work program in the fields of distribution.

Typing contests, sponsored by the Commercial Club, encouraged students to compete for awards. Any student with at least one year of typing could participate for the gold and black enameled pins, or for the trophy presented for the highest speed.

Besides the typing contests, Commercial Club members sponsored a field trip to the Davenport Hotel in October to study hotel management. They served a potluck dinner in January to honor the outgoing officers and welcome the new officers. At Christmas, members baked cookies and made wreaths for the Senior Citizens Home.

Determined blockers held back the Lewis and Clark line as Ed Fisher (17) attempts an extra point.

Position

Hindered by an inconsistent attack, the Highlanders fought to a near even 1966 grid record. Posting a four-win, five-loss season, the laddies beat all opponents except league titlist Gonzaga Prep, but were in turn defeated by all league foes except the winless Joel Ferris Saxons.

After seeing the team's winning performances against North Central and Rogers, a University of Washington football scout commented that it was one of the finest high school football teams that he had ever seen. At other times, though, the gridders did not generate the kind of attack essential for a winning season.

A small, but determined back-field led by all-city players Ed Fisher and Steve Ogilvie and end Steve Moyle gave the team its greatest strength. However, lack of experience in the line led to erratic performances throughout the season.

(Above) Halfback Steve Ogilvie (10) evades one tackler and attempts to out-run another in the season's opening game as he displays the speed and agility that made him the team's top rusher. During the season, Ogilvie scored seven touchdowns and made an end zone tackle on defense for a safety in running up a total of 44 points during the season.

(Right) Struggling to break free from the grasp of an LC opponent, end Steve Moyle (85) tightly clutches the football as he is brought down from behind. Playing on both offense and defensive, Moyle's all-around ability earned him a spot on the Spokesman-Review and Chronicle all-city first teams.

Four Picked for All-City Honors

Combining skill and determination to turn in outstanding performances during the football season, four Shadle gridgers were named to all-city teams. Selected were end Steve Moyle, first teams Review and Chronicle; quarterback Ed Fisher, first team Chronicle; halfback Steve Ogilvie and linebacker Steve Barker, both second team Chronicle.

Moyle, rarely out of the game, rolled up 257 yards and 5 touchdowns on 15 receptions. Defensively he was among the leaders in team tackling. Coach Gary Davis termed Moyle, along with Fisher, "our most consistent player."

Fisher played well on offense and defense as well as handling the punting and conversion duties during the year. Passing for 791 yards and 8 touchdowns, he placed second in the city in that department while claiming the number three spot in total offense. For the second straight year he led the city in passing percentage by completing 55 of 110 tosses. Ed established a league record by throwing 17 career touchdown passes and tied another league mark by connecting for four touchdowns in a single game.

Fisher set a school record by scoring 88 career points, intercepted three passes during the season, and led the league in punting, averaging 35.7 yards, including a record 61-yard boot.

Ogilvie was a strong runner and good defender. He placed third in league rushing with 723 yards and completed a pass for 23 yards to gain the number four spot in total offense. He intercepted a pass for a touchdown and scored a total of 44 points.

Barker, a junior, showed good ability earning a spot on the first defensive unit. Though he didn't play in the first two games of the season, he led the team in tackling and assists.

Highlanders Place Fourth In All-City Competition

Placing fourth in the All-City meet and tenth in their division of the state meet concluded the varsity cross country team's season. The Highlanders, who finished third in Division II of the City League and fourth in the final standings, had a three win, two loss record in dual meet competition for the year.

The varsity added a victory in the University of Idaho Invitational cross country meet. The varsity and 'B' teams also hosted their annual Highlander Invitational meet.

Scots Finish Fourth In Tri-District Meet

A second place finish in the sub-district wrestling meet highlighted the post-season activities of the Shadle wrestling squad. Though they didn't win any individual championships, the team advanced ten grapplers, the greatest number sent by any school, to the district meet where they placed fourth.

Second place District finishes by Dick Shaw and Rusty Tavares qualified them for berths in the state meet. Shaw and Tavares, both second-year varsity wrestlers, suffered narrow, first-round losses in state action.

Matmen Decision NC, Earn Fourth Crown

Playing before the largest crowd ever to attend a city league dual match, the Shadle wrestling team defeated the North Central Indians to earn a title tie with NC and Rogers in the final meet of the season. The championship was the fourth that the Laddies had won or shared in the last five years. The three teams, all with 7-1 records, staged one of the tightest races in the short history of the city wrestling league.

Scots Place Seventh In State

Placing seventh in state competition capped the Shadle hoop squad's most successful season in six years. Opening their post-season action with a narrow 52-48 loss to Central Valley for the city championship, the Highlanders went on to defeat University 65-55 and Pullman 69-36 to earn a spot in the Region IV playoffs. They downed Richland 69-54 before being stopped once again by the Central Valley Bears by a score of 61-52. On their way to a first place division finish, the Highlanders became the highest scoring team in the history of the City Basketball League.

Pouring a record 330 field goals through the hoops in the 13-game season, the Laddies scored 873 points for an average of 67.15, breaking two records set by the West Valley Eagles in 1966.

Though lacking experience, the Laddies jumped to an early lead in the Division II race and finished two games ahead of second place University Titans.

Averaging 55.9 points per game while holding their opponents to 41.9, the 'B' basketball team enjoyed a successful season, scoring 19 wins against only 3 defeats. The Laddie 'B' team showed strength under the backboard controlling 935 rebounds against 590 for the opposition.

The Shadle 'B' hoopers lost the city title to the Rogers Pirates whom they twice defeated, having lost twice themselves to third place Gonzaga Prep and once to Lewis and Clark.

Highlander Performers Defeat City, State

In its first year as an authorized city league sport, the gymnastic team defeated all city competition and placed high in state meets.

"The girls this year show the most depth of any gym team the school has ever had," relates Coach Lyle Pugh. After defeating Rogers, Ferris and LC, the girls took first in city, and the boys placed second. The combined team won the Eastern Invitational Meet after defeating Kennewick. The girls placed second and the boys fourth in the WSU meet. The boys also won a triangular meet competing against Rogers and Colville.

In every meet, three gymnasts are required to compete in five events out of a possible six. They must not only learn standard Olympic routines, but also create their own routines for each meet entered.

To Give Water Show

Joint participation in the Christmas project and the annual water-ballet swim show united the Aqua Tartans girls' club and the Boys' Swim Team for the first time.

As a combined Christmas project, both organizations gave a swimming party for the boys from the Morning Star Boys' Ranch.

Based on a theme of "Around the World," the Aqua Tartans' annual water show allowed each girl to create and present her own routine. Mrs. Dennie Moore, club advisor, assisted the girls with decorations and choreography for the show. Boys from the team also performed in several of the acts.

By defeating NC, the only other high school team in the city, the Boys' Swim Team, coached by Mr. Clyde Combs, challenged Pullman, Kennewick and the WSU Frosh before sending four boys to the state meet.

Scot Record Holders Return, Team Shows Sprint Strength

"We're definitely not as strong as last year," said track coach Harvey Lochhead, referring to the 1967 season, "but neither is the rest of the league." The Laddies' greatest potential strength, according to pre-season indications, lay in the broad jump and 100 and 220-yard sprints. Returning from last year's team were school record holders Ed Fisher, broad jump and sprints, and Don Semler, pole vault. The team was also bolstered by the return of veteran trackmen Dan Quaschnick, sprints and relays; Greg Erickson, high jump; Brian Hocum, sprints and relays; and Steve Braun, distance running.

Laddie Lettermen Lead Diamond-Dusters

First baseman Bob Miller beats a Lewis and Clark runner to the bag for an out in a varsity practice game against the Tigers. Backing up the play are pitcher Dan Rickard and infielder Les Rison.

Getting in shape for Shadle's first game, Dan Clary connects for a hit during batting practice.

With six returning lettermen, the varsity baseball team, under Coach Joe Heslin's supervision, sought to develop a strong team. Three outfielders, John Nelson, Pete Helke, and Craig Moritz, plus pitcher John Ward; Gary Squires, second base, and Mike Maloney, shortstop, led the team.

Seven pre-season games conditioned the boys before their 18 scheduled league games. The game with West Valley on April 11 opened the 1967 baseball season.

As a new addition this year, the team wore "Helke Specials," baseball helmets, during the entire game. The helmet earned its nickname from Pete Helke, who wore his batting helmet during last season's games.

'B' Squadders Gain Varsity Experience

Anticipating a good season after collecting a 7-5 win over Rogers in a practice game, "B" squad baseball coach Doug Cresswell strived to prepare the Highlander "B's" for their first league game.

To gain experience, many of the top "B" squadders played in some of the varsity's pre-season games.

Boy golfers captured first place in their league last fall, while the girls took second in high school golf competition.

Having received a first place championship in the league last season, the boys' team went on to defeat 11 other teams this year, under the direction of a new coach, Mr. Ray Mohny.

Losing only to LC, the girls' golf team, supervised by Mrs. Charlotte Jones, competed with the other city golf teams and also shot against the St. George's squad.

In competition, nine-hole matches were held at Downriver Golf Course, where the Shadle teams turned out during the week. Practicing three times weekly after school, both teams ranked its members according to their score, with the top six scorers entering the matches.

Girls Capture Two

Undefeated in fall competition, the girls' tennis team placed first in the league and took two all-city trophies, more than any other competing girls' team. Coached by Miss Sharon Hale, the team beat Rogers, Ferris, LC, NC, CV, WV, and University.

Composed largely of underclassmen, the boys' tennis team took fourth place in fall competition. Coached by Mr. Marvin Anderson, the boys challenged the same schools as the girls, plus Gonzaga Prep. Working to improve their rank, the boys entered ten spring matches, rotating to many outside courts.

Both teams were required to enter five singles and two doubles matches in competition. Challenge matches were held within each team to determine top varsity players.

District Sponsored Highlights Year's

KSPS, an educational television station, and new school classes climaxed School District 81's projects this year.

Broadcasting for a 90-mile radius, KSPS channel 7 was designed to co-ordinate daytime instructional programs with classroom teaching. Plays by well-known authors, lectures and music programs from folk to jazz provide cultural entertainment for evening programs. Some programs have been designed to help parents understand the new mathematics. Dr. Albert Ayars, Superintendent of Spokane Public Schools, hopes that evening TV will eventually present college credit courses.

The new station began broadcasting in early spring. SPS in the call letters stands for Spokane Public Schools. KSPS plans a 13-hour broadcasting day and will continue on a smaller scale during the Area schools added a Humanities course to their curriculum to show advanced students an historic prospective of life. 'Office'

Trying to fit 2122 students into a school designed for 1800, was only one problem facing Shadle's new Registrar, Mr. Wayne Conner. Mr. Robert Keuhl also encountered new perplexities as sophomore counselor this year.

Previously a counselor, Mr. Conner computerized report cards, class schedules and other IBM data for the school.

Mr. Keuhl, formerly a social studies teacher, helped the new underclassmen organize their class and plan their year's activities.

Principal Mr. William Taylor and Vice Principal Mr. Keith Rostvold awarded student honors and coped with discipline problems as co-administrators for the school.

Dean of Girls Miss Helen Cleveland headed all Girls' League operations, and with Mrs. Olga Iverson, counseled the juniors.

Mr. Donald Cobb, Dean of Boys, and Mrs. Irma Painter helped college-bound seniors prepare for college tests and applications.

"The summer is the busiest time of the year for us," states Mr. Hugh Leppell, head custodian. "We clean the building, water the grounds and clean the pools before school opens in the fall."

The grounds are watered and kept green; the walls, floors, and ceilings are all washed and necessary painting is done. All electric light fixtures are removed from the ceilings and cleaned. The furniture is repaired, cleaned, and placed in the rooms by the custodians. "It's quite a job," said Mr. Harmon Ranney, engineer custodian.

The floors are stripped of all wax, washed and re-waxed. The job takes 55 gallons of liquid soap and 140 gallons of wax.

"Baked duck under glass may eventually be served for lunch," quipped Mrs. Beatrice Masters, head cook, exaggerating the new lunch program.

The cooks increased the variety of food as the year progressed and added an extra lunch period, bringing the total to four. Fruit juices were added to entice the menu. "We serve approximately 1230 lunches daily," commented Mrs. Donna Dotson, one of the 12 cooks.

For those students who liked a little "something extra," super lunches were available this year. By paying extra, hungry lunchers received either an extra serving of the main dish or a hot sandwich.

Below: Mrs. Clara Ninemire prepares sweet rolls to be eaten with hot lunchers' favorite: chili.

Bewilderment Plagues New Sophomores

Sophomores Larie Anderson, Jeff Nadeau, Rich Merritt, Janet Martin, Sue Terhark and Mary Carter carefully plan their class constitution.

Free elevator passes, reserved seats in the senior cove, forbidden window benches and wrong directions all combined to make a confusing first day for 732 sophomores. The upperclassmen employed traditional gimmicks to "welcome" the new Highlanders.

Rapidly blending with the mass of students in the congested halls, the sophomore lost his look of confusion. He learned to cheer loudly at games, to master the complex and challenging work in the classrooms, to uphold the Shadle tradition on the athletic field; in short, he became a Highlander.

Sophomores started writing a constitution in early December and elected their first class officers in February, which marked the earliest formation of a class in Shadle's history.

Astonishment shows on sophomore Gail Nolan's face as Mr. Taylor catches her using "elevator pass."

Ralleys, Pop Bottles, Prom Build Junior

Car rallies, a "powder puff" basketball game, a pop bottle collection, sale of over 500 "Go get 'em Scotties" booster buttons, morning mixers and a Voodoo doll constituted the money raising projects of the Class of '68.

The Junior Class presented Shadle's first car rallies. Driving trophies were awarded to drivers compiling the most points over a 25-mile mapped course.

"Powder Puff Basketball," with girl players and boy cheerleaders, brought the juniors together for a night of frivolity.

Highlighting the juniors' year, the Class of '68 presented "Cherish," the annual Junior Prom. A new tradition emerged this year at the prom with the crowning of a King and Queen.

Gavel, pins and office changes ended the first semester and started new terms of office for the Junior Class. Old and new officers are Marv Seal, fall pres.; Harvey

Jones, spring pres.; Harvey Dunham, spring vice pres.; Gary Meissner, fall vice pres.; Janet Daves, fall sec.; Kelly Little, spring sec.; Karen Clark, fall fifth exec.;

Mr. Douglas Cresswell, Class of '68 advisor, speaks to the class council about the successful results of completed projects.

Car rallies, the Junior Prom and other projects are frequently discussed at class council meetings.

With five seconds left, Mike Myhre and Jack Burnes pushed on to the finish line to win Shadle's first car rally.

Robes, Books, Legs Highlight Seniors' Varied Activities

Initiating plans for green and gold graduation robes, staging a "beautiful legs" contest and selling used books highlighted the fall semester Senior Class activities.

The purchase of 700 school-colored caps and gowns was based on competitive bids from three companies. A student-faculty committee directed the planning and made the final selection.

Early in the semester, 15 senior boys vied for attention by displaying their legs in the glass show case during the lunches and before and after school. Voting by coins declared the Seniors' most beautiful legs.

Selling used books at school and Shadle Center also helped bring the treasury to the highest semester-end total in class history.

Other activities — the Senior Con, transporting nursing home patients to Christmas Concert and selling popcorn and Highlander key chains completed a busy semester.

Trumble. Row 3: Chuck McCarthy, Gary Dressler, Dan Barrett, Bill Mustard, Randy Stoner, Larry McCaughey. Row 4: Larry Tuke, Frank Visger, Glenn Fehler, Don Jones, John Lear, Steve Hager.

Mr. Steve Bell, Senior Class advisor, offers constructive criticism and suggestions to seniors during Senior Con practice this fall.

Council Leads Class Of '67 Through 'Maze' Of Activity

Pranks typify Senior Sports Clothes Day as Joan Hoagland, Glenn Fehler, Vicki Melchisedeck and Steve Ogilvie have camel fights in the Senior Court.

"... and all who want Jane?" Hands raised and a Spring Senior Class homeroom representative was elected. Led by the six officers, the council guided the 650 members of the graduating class through their final months of high school.

Commencement climaxed the semester and twelve years of public schooling for the class of 1967. As each of the green-robed youths stepped through a spotlighted arch, he shook hands with Mr. George Nethercutt, school board president, received his diploma and took his first step into the adult world.

The last few weeks overflowed with activity as traditional events concluded the year. The May 20 prom at Fort Wright Commons Hall and Senior Dress Up, Sports Clothes and Rule Days, along with the breakfast and barbeque, helped etch the class of '67 into the clans of Shadle Park history.

Class of '67 Spring Semester Council includes, Front Row: Wendy Wright, Vicki Melchisedeck, Marcia Trumble, Janice LeBret, Debbie Burdett. Row 2: Terry Nolan, Sue

Rainer, Norm LeBret.

PARDON US,

We'd like to depart just once from the usual messages we print in our advertising space. Instead of talk about the utility service we supply, may we speak briefly of our sincere interest in the students and young people of this area.

Time passes rapidly and you will move from the learning to the doing stage. The community and the nation will depend on you for much - you are the future.

Congratulations, and best wishes from the men and women of
